

Meet Camie Goldhammer!

Camie Jae Goldhammer, MSW, LICSW, IBCLC (Sisseton-Wahpeton)

from Seattle, WA is the founder and chair of the Native American Breastfeeding Coalition of Washington.

Inspired as a child by Buffy Saint Marie nursing her baby on Sesame Street, Camie addresses the effects of historical trauma on parenting practices, specifically breastfeeding, in Native communities.

She offers ideas on how to reclaim the traditional practice of breastfeeding which is essential for achieving true food sovereignty and community healing.

There are 3 opportunities to meet Camie Goldhammer while she is in Nebraska. Please try to attend one of the following events and you're welcome to come to all three.

Thursday, May 14, 2015, 9am—10:30am.

Meet & Greet with Coalition Leadership and Diversity Teams

Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department
3140 N St., Lincoln, NE

Thursday, May 14, 2015, 2pm —3:30pm.

Meet & Greet with Omaha Moms & Breastfeeding Advocates

Tentative location: Fred LeRoy Health and Wellness Center, 2602 J Street, Omaha, NE. Call (402) 502-0617 to confirm location.

Friday, May 15, 2015, 10:15am—11:45am.

Standing Bear Symposium—Concurrent Session: FREE!

Mitakuye Oyasin: Health & Healing through Motherhood

Mary Riepma Ross Media Arts Center, South Theater
313 N 13th St., Lincoln, NE

RSVP to Kelli Hansen: kelli@nebreastfeeding.org